Solving your International MRO needs with Global Solutions

Global MRO Products Your Global Solution

In business, one of the constants is "costs and work loads will always tend to rise". As industry becomes more international in its usage of capital equipment, the complexity and costs to maintain these investments also increases. The international procurement of MRO (maintenance repair operations) products is a difficult yet essential task that modern companies find themselves faced with. We can help you.

At Global MRO Products Corporation, we eliminate many of the foreign and domestic middlemen that so many others claim do not exist. This provides you with faster, more accurate service levels, lower pricing on average, as well as a more expedient, on time delivery of your goods and/or services. Production costs are lowered, inventory levels are able to be downsized and companies are able to breathe easier knowing they have a supplier they can trust. At Global MRO Products, we provide to you-

- The capacity to secure products from around the world.
- The technical knowledge to assist you in determining your actual needs.
- The experience and knowledge of international logistics- guiding your orders through the ever changing environment of Customs, shipping laws and trade agreements.
- Customer service that evolves to meet and exceed the requirements that your company and you, yourself, place on valued suppliers.

Our company was established in 2002 and placed its center of operational and logistical support in the city of Rolling Meadows, Illinois, only a few miles away from O'Hare International Airport (ORD), one of the largest and the busiest logistical hubs in the world. Although the company was a new entity and player in the industry, its owners were not. They possessed over 23 years (2002) of international MRO experience gained through previous employment with Japanese MRO distributors and importers. With all the recurring frustrations and time constraints that exist within your manufacturing facility, you can count on our employees to simplify your product acquisition dilemmas through our customer-oriented work ethic, international knowledge and expertise.

Global MRO Products Corporation is an American and veteran owned and operated company, whose loyalties are to our customers...whose dedication is to solving your problems...whose goal is to become your benchmark that you hold others to. With over two decades of experience working several hundred lines of international manufacture, a vast knowledge of products and manufacturers is accessed to provide you the most efficient and effective answer to your local needs.

You can view an extensive list of the many Japanese, German, Korean and other European and Pacific Rim companies that we represent as well as products they have available on our Internet site. Our latest line card is always downloadable as well as other innovations as they become available. Global MRO Products holds the answers to your MRO needs. We are...Your Global Solution.
